RESIDENCE R. G. AGEE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Damages estimated at $7500 were caused at 7:30 o'clock last night when fire, resulting from defective wiring, almost destroyed the residence of R. G. Agee, son of A. W. Agee, 1607 Robinson avenue. With low pressure because of the situation of the house near the reservoir, the fire department had much difficulty in extinguishing the flames. The building was insured for $4000 and the furniture for $2500.

Members of the family were in the city when the fire occurred. Judge A. W. Agee, who has been living at the Marion, was taken to the scene in an automobile. He felt deeply the loss of some letters from his wife, who has been dead for some time.

Although the fire department made a hurried run to the scene, the stream that came from the hose was without force.

Neighbors were on hand assisting in moving out some of the furniture. A piano valued at $800 was moved to safety but most of the furniture was destroyed.

In an interview, A. W. Agee said today:

"It is difficult for me to estimate my personal loss. Since the death of my wife in September, 1912, I have been making my home with my son Robert, and had there many articles which cannot be replaced, and the loss of which I feel very keenly. Above all were letters written to me by my wife while I was here and she in California, nearly two years ago, and covering a period of two or three months. Then there was a large solid walnut chair upholstered in leather, which I occupied as presiding officer of the Nebraska senate in 1883, and which was presented to me by the senate, and had on it a silver plate bearing the inscription, 'Presented to Hon. Alfred W. Agee, lieutenant governor, by the Nebraska senate, 1883.' There were two small oil paintings, painted by my daughter and family pictures, also legislative journals covering my public services. Several volumes of law books and other papers representing a life time of work."

"There was a box containing many title deeds, abstracts of title, life, fire and accident insurance policies in a box which I usually kept in a vault in the bank, but which I had taken out temporarily and neglected to return. I suppose those papers were all destroyed."

VICTORY FOR THE AGGIES ATHLETES

As a result of the decision of W. E. Day, Utah representative of the National Amateur Athletic union, the Agriculture college shares the honor of the first place with the Brigham Young university of Provo, while the University of Utah drops to third place in track and field honors of 1913. In the annual state track meet of last spring, Edwin Peterson of the U. of U. entered as a competitor, under the protest of Coach Teetzel of the Agricultural college and the controversy was referred to Mr. Day. Professor Teetzel claimed that Peterson was ineligible or had competed four years theretofore. Mr. Peterson denied this and Mr. Day was asked to decide the matter. The latter now sustains the contention of Coach Teetzel and the U. of U. loses five points, which drops her to the third place. In the state contest of last spring, the B. Y. U. people and the Aggies each scored 42 points which ties them for first place.

While a time of victory ought not to be a time for exultation, yet this decision brings to the people of the A. C. much satisfaction and rejoicing. This rejoicing, perchance, is heightened a trifle by the fact that the various reports appearing in the press of the state and purporting to come from certain individuals well known in the athletic field, have of late been extremely unfair to the A. C. U. The college is notably clean in her athletics and the verdict of Mr. Day only emphasizes this superior position that the college has always held. The average American does love the square deal and as strongly dislikes the disposition on the part of any one to offer silly and dishonest excuses for failure, so Aggie's doubtless will be pardoned for a slightly exultant feeling of satisfaction at the recent decision.

MAIL TUBES FOR THE NEW BUILDINGS IN OGDEN

Mailing schedules to be posted at the openings of the mail tubes on the various floors of the Kiesel and Eccles buildings were received today by the postoffice and will be placed in position when the mail tubes in the building are completed. The schedules are for the purpose of notifying tenants in the building when collections of mail will be made so that letters will be posted accordingly.

The system of posting letters in the two big buildings will be similar to that in all large modern buildings. On each floor there will be a mail slot. Tenants need not leave their office floor to post letters as the mail dropped in the slot will fall to a receptacle on the ground floor. The carrier in that district will make the collections from the receptacle into which the tubes from the various floors lead.

DANGER IN DANCING

In unventilated halls, statistics prove that more sickness is caused in winter from overheating the body and close dance halls than from all other causes combined. The Five Points dance hall is perfectly ventilated and is uniformly heated. Besides it has the best floor in Ogden. A fine orchestra and reasonable prices, 35c per couple, extra lady 50c.

DEAD BABY FOUND IN FORGERIES ON BANK A DUMP HEAP BY WORKMEN CAUSES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

Curiosity of a workman lead to the discovery of a mummified body of an infant on a dump heap in the rear of the Howell building, about 9 o'clock this morning. The body was wrapped in two towels and a de- cayed newspaper within a small red tin bread box. Excitement was intense in that vicinity until Dr. Fred G. Clark applied to Sanitary Inspector George Shorten for the return of the body on the ground that it was one of his specimens.

According to information received by the sanitary inspector, the tin box had been in a storeroom near Dr. Clark's office on the second floor of the Howell block, but had been thrown to the dump heap in the rear of the building Sunday when workmen began to tear down partitions in preparation for remodeling work. The box remained unopened until a curious carpenter unfastened the clasp and peered within the wrappings.

The news of the discovery of the infant spread rapidly and the sanitary inspector's office was notified. When the inspector saw the contents of the box, he called Chief of Police W. I. Norton, Detective George Wardlaw and City Physician Walter Whalen. The box and contents were removed to the basement of the city hall where an examination of the dead baby was made.

The body was that of a female child, perfectly developed with hair and finger nails. Those who saw the body judged that it had died shortly after or before birth. It was a little longer than 12 inches and was in a semi-mummified state. In the box was also something which resembled other dried organism.

The police and sanitary inspector were speculating as to the discovery when Dr. Clark told Sanitary Inspector Shorten that the body was one of his specimens which he had had for some time and which he had placed in the storeroom for safe-keeping.

The body in the tin box is in the disinfectant room in the basement of the city hall, but will probably be returned to the physician today.

PROCEEDINGS IN POLICE COURT

James L. Davis, recently of Salt Lake, was arraigned before Judge W. H. Reeder this morning on the charge of failure to provide for his wife and four minor children.

Davis expressed the desire to care for his family and is to arrange with County Attorney David Jensen a bond insuring the payment of a sum at regular intervals.

W. C. Downs, the man who was arrested following the breaking of a window on lower Twenty-fifth street, pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness. He said he had come to Ogden for a time but not to serve time. His case was taken under advisement.

L. C. King and Frank Jones, both colored, pleaded not guilty to vagrancy and their cases were continued.

BIBLE IS NEEDED IN DAILY LIFE

Washington, Oct. 21.—"There never was a time when the people needed the inspiration of the Bible more than they do at present," said Secretary Bryan tonight in addressing the delegates to the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church in session here.

"And," the Secretary added, "there is not a community which cannot be redeemed and purified by a better knowledge and larger application of the Bible to the daily life. No money that is invested pays so large a dividend as money that is spent for the moral uplift of the community. 'I am inclined to believe that we have over estimated the value of mental training and underestimated the value of the heart's development. A good heart can use a very dull mind and make that mind serviceable to society but a bad heart cannot make use of a mind however brilliant.'"

The speaker expressed hearty sympathy with both foreign and home missionary work.

In the district court yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Louise Van Dyke-Turner filed a petition for divorce against J. J. Turner on the grounds of failure to provide. The complaint alleges that the parties were married in Ely, Nevada, November 18, 1907. The plaintiff asks for costs and attorney fees, general relief and restoration of her maiden name, Louise Van Dyke.

Mr. Turner has been in custody at the city jail for the past week or ten days pending an action against him for forgery which is now on file in the municipal court clerk's office at the city hall and Chief W. I. Norton states that he will be arraigned tomorrow morning before Judge Reeder. The complaint was drawn by County Attorney David Jensen and it contains seventeen different counts of forgery.

Five years ago Mrs. Turner deposited $4000 with the Ogden Savings bank since which time Mr. Turner has appeared at the bank at diverse times with orders to the cashier purporting to have been issued by his wife for withdrawal of the funds, each order calling for different amounts ranging from $1000 to lesser sums. The bank accepted the orders in good faith and was not aware that they were not genuine until recently when Mrs. Turner came to the bank to get her $4000.

Mrs. Turner was advised by the cashier that her husband had drawn the entire $4000 on orders issued in her name. The lady emphatically denied that she had ever given her husband an order for the money and declared that if he had presented any they were forgeries. She again demanded the money and refused to release the bank on the deposit, even though her husband be placed in jail on alleged forgery.

It is said by those best acquainted with the case that it is one of the most cleverly planned forgeries that has come to the notice of the officers in a number of years. The officers say that they have kept Turner under surveillance for some time, believing him to have been implicated in the blackmail outrages which have been perpetrated in this city the past two years but they have not been able to prefer charges. It is expected that sensational developments will be made in the case now on file.

ATTEMPT TO EXTORT MONEY FIGURES IN SALOON CASE

Before Judges James A. Howell and Nathan J. Harris this morning, in the district court, was resumed the hearing of a retail liquor license to F. P. Garner, proprietor of the St. Anthony bar on Washington avenue, near Twenty-fifth street.

Attorney Joseph Chez was entered in the case as counsel for Mr. Garner and the district attorney was requested by the court to examine the witnesses. In making the request, Judge Howell stated that he did not wish it understood that the court was taking sides in the matter but that it would expedite the hearing if the district court conducted the examination.

August Bodh, who was tried a short time ago for an assault with intent to kill Deputy Sheriff J. L. Hobson, was placed on the witness stand and testified that, on July 25, the night he shot the officer, he, in company with David Edlund, purchased beer at the St. Anthony bar. He did not know the name of the bar, but he designated the place where he made the purchase as the saloon on the east side of Washington avenue, near Twenty-fifth street. There is no other saloon than the St. Anthony in that locality.

At the time the purchase was made Bodh stated that he was not 21 years of age and that no questions were asked him regarding his age. He said that on the day in question he had purchased whiskey and beer at a number of saloons, both on Washington avenue and Twenty-fifth street, and also on Twenty-fourth street. He confessed that he had taken many drinks in the afternoon and evening.

Attorney James N. Kimball was called and he testified to having remained in the rear of the St. Anthony saloon a number of hours in an intoxicated condition, a little more than a year ago, but that he did not purchase liquor at that time. He stated, however, that he had purchased it there at other times when he was not intoxicated. He said that he had been refused liquor there when he was intoxicated and that he did not know that he had been placed under the ban at the St. Anthony bar.

James Moyes testified that he had been advised by one of the bartenders of the St. Anthony bar, a little more than a year ago, that Mr. Kimball was intoxicated in the rear part of the saloon and he asked him to take care of him. He called for the assistance of Mr. Harcombe who got a hack and took Mr. Kimball home. He did not see Mr. Kimball buy liquor in the saloon at the time, but he got a drink for him as he was in a bad condition and he thought he needed a stimulant.

Detective Charles Pincock stated to the court that he considered the St. Anthony bar one of the best regulated saloons in the city and that he did not know of the officers ever having been called there on account of disorder. He also stated that Mr. Garner had not been advised to not sell liquor to Mr. Kimball, but acknowledged that a blacklist had been strictly kept in former Chief Browning's time. Since then, he said, he had had but little to do with that part of the work. He knew it was against the law to sell to minors and habitual drunkards and it had been the rule to advise saloonmen of the law.

Chief of Police W. I. Norton, Sheriff T. A. DeVine and Deputy Sheriff J. L. Hobson were called to testify to the manner in which the St. Anthony bar has been conducted ever since Mr. Garner has had charge of it and they all said that it was an orderly, well regulated saloon. In fact, the officers stated that they had no trouble with any of the saloons and considered that the regulations are being complied with in all of them.

A. M. Miller, who is in business near the St. Anthony bar, stated on the witness stand that the St. Anthony saloon was an orderly place and that he considered it a well regulated place of business of that kind.

David Edlund, the young man who was with August Bodh the night of July 25, was placed on the stand and he testified to practically the same things that young Bodh did, respecting the purchase of beer and whiskey at various saloons in the city. He mentioned three places which they visited that night, the St. Anthony, the Utah and Poulson's place, all on Washington avenue.

Edlund said that Bodh had been drinking before he met him that evening and that at the time of the trouble with Officer Hobson he was greatly under the influence of liquor. He said that Bodh bought a drink at the St. Anthony bar and also purchased three bottles of beer.

When asked whether he had not gone to saloon men with Bodh's brother-in-law, asking for funds with which to defend Bodh and threatening trouble if refused, Edlund said that he had gone to only two places with Nelson, the brother-in-law, who told Garner that if he did not yield some money, he would have trouble. The young man stated, however, that he had nothing to do with the soliciting of funds and that he did not hear much of the conversation between Nelson and the saloon men.

He denied that Garner had ordered himself and Nelson out of the place and had called them a bunch of blackmailers. That is, he said, he did not hear that.

At the noon hour the hearing was continued to Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at which time further testimony will be offered.

The attorney for Mr. Garner says he expects to show by reputable witnesses that the St. Anthony bar is as well regulated and that there is no reason why the license should not be renewed.
